BiasHELP, Inc. joins with the United Nations General Assembly in commemorating January 27th, Holocaust Remembrance Day. On this day in 1945, the largest Nazi Death Camp Auschwitz-Birkenau was liberated. On this annual day of commemoration, individuals and states from all corners of the earth come together to honor the victims of the Nazi era and pledge themselves to the task of making sure nothing like this ever happens again.

Here on Long Island, we are continually reminded that anti-Semitism still exists. This is evident in Suffolk County's annual 2012 Hate Crimes Incidence Report. The largest number, 54, of reported hate crime incidents targeted the Jewish community.

On this day of commemoration, BiasHELP urges all Long Islanders to recommit themselves to the fight against anti-Semitism.
